Educating the Machine: Is Your Site Legible to AI?

A quick way to check whether your content clearly teaches AI systems who you are, what you do, who you serve, and why you are credible.

TL;DR — 3 Easy Things to Do First

1 Fix Your Opening Statement On your homepage and top service pages, clearly say what you do, who it's for, and where you operate.	2 Add 5-8 Real FAQs Answer pricing, process, fit, timeline, and "how to choose" questions in plain language.	3 Add Proof Next to the Claim Tie services to case studies, testimonials, reviews, examples, credentials, or measurable outcomes.

How to use this: Start with your homepage and your top 3 revenue pages. Check the boxes below, then prioritize any missing items that affect how AI would summarize your business.

1 Entity Clarity

- ☐ Your homepage makes your primary business category obvious within the first screen.
- ☐ Your top service pages clearly say what you do, who it is for, and where you operate.
- ☐ You use consistent service names across your website, Google Business Profile, directories, and social profiles.
- ☐ Your About page clearly explains your positioning, audience, and credibility.

2 Service Definitions

- ☐ Each core service page explains what the service is in 1-2 plain-English sentences.
- ☐ Each service page explains what is included and what is not included.
- ☐ Each service page explains who is a good fit and who is not a good fit.
- ☐ The page avoids vague language like "solutions" without explaining the actual service.

3 Attributes AI Can Understand

- ☐ You list service areas, industries served, customer types, use cases, and common problems solved.
- ☐ You explain your process in simple steps.
- ☐ You include pricing factors or budget expectations where appropriate.
- ☐ You explain common constraints, requirements, or timelines.

4 Proof and Trust

- ☐ Your claims are supported with case studies, testimonials, examples, credentials, or measurable outcomes.
- ☐ Proof is tied to specific services, not buried on a generic testimonials page.
- ☐ Your site shows who is behind the business and why they are qualified.
- ☐ You have at least one proof asset for each major service you want to be known for.

5 FAQ Coverage

- ☐ Your key pages answer real buyer questions, not just generic SEO questions.
- ☐ You cover pricing, timeline, process, comparisons, objections, and “how to choose” questions.
- ☐ FAQs are written as direct questions with short, clear answers.
- ☐ Your FAQ answers are specific enough that AI could quote or summarize them accurately.

6 Internal Linking

- ☐ Core service pages link to supporting FAQs, case studies, comparison pages, and related articles.
- ☐ Related pages form clear content clusters around important services.
- ☐ Important pages are not orphaned or buried several clicks deep.
- ☐ Internal links use descriptive anchor text that reinforces the entity/topic.

7 Off-Site Consistency

- ☐ Google Business Profile, directories, and social profiles describe the business the same way.
- ☐ Categories and services are consistent across major listings.
- ☐ Reviews mention the services and outcomes you want to be known for.
- ☐ Third-party mentions do not conflict with your current positioning.

Priority: What to Fix First

Start with the pages closest to revenue. A good first-pass priority order is:

- ☐ Homepage positioning statement
- ☐ Top 3 service pages
- ☐ FAQs on those service pages
- ☐ Proof tied to those services
- ☐ Google Business Profile and directory consistency

The bigger idea: your content should teach AI systems who you are, what you do, who you serve, and why you're credible.
